The purpose of these exercises is to test your ability to count relations.

1. How many relations can be defined from the bits B to the digits D?

2. How many relations can be defined from the digits D to the digits D?

3. How many relations can be defined from the hexadecimal numerals H to the digits D?